Royal Couple Ends First Holiday Expedition

First pictures of the Royal holiday were taken at dusk yesterday by Colonist photographer Bud Kinsman. Prince Philip leads the way from fishing boat at French Creek followed by Princess Elizabeth, guide J. L.

Stevens, Prince's Equerry Lieut.-Cmdr. Michael Parker, and Eagle Crest co-owner E. L. Boulthée. Although light was falling, Kinsman offered to take the picture without a distracting flashbulb and from a respectable distance. Because no other photographer has taken a picture of the Royal couple on holiday, The Colonist has turned its picture over to all newspapers from the three countries covering the Royal tour.

First Outing Of Holiday Successful

Duke Lands Six Fish; Princess Just Watches

By T. A. MYERS
(Colonist Staff Reporter)

QUALICUM BEACH, Oct. 24—Prince Philip caught six grise today.

He missed out on the big salmon he hoped to catch, but he had himself a fine afternoon's sport. Princess Elizabeth seemed to have enjoyed herself too.

The two went fishing with a small party in a small power boat. They ran into cold winds and rough seas, but were smiling broadly when they returned.

It was their first outside activity on their three-day holiday. Until this afternoon they had remained inside camp tents—Eagle Crest—located within its spacious grounds.

About 2:30 p.m., a three-car caravan swung out of the Eagle Crest driveway and headed south to the small boat basin at French Creek.

Prince Philip himself drove the second car, a light blue convertible.

A few tourists who had gathered at the gateway to Eagle Crest when they saw half a dozen police cars swinging around waved and cheered lustily as the Royal car pulled out. They were so excited they forgot to use the still and movie cameras they'd brought along.

At French Creek, the three cars pulled up on the waterfront. With no more excitement than any other tourists, the Prince and Princess and their party boarded the 20-foot open cabin cruiser Aquajoy and headed out into the Strait of Georgia.

Twenty minutes out, as the Aquajoy swung north past Lasquet Island, the Duke shouted, "I've got one!" He hauled in a small grise.

In rapid succession, as the boat cruised eight miles north past the Eagle Crest beach, the Duke netted five more grise, all mid-sized.

His private secretary and equerry, Lieut.-Cmdr. Michael Parker, pulled in two.

NOT FOR PRINCESS

The Princess said she didn't feel like fishing.

Success of the Royal fishing trip refuted the onshore "experts" who had loudly prophesied that the Duke wouldn't even get a nibble. The experts agreed that the season was wrong and that if the Duke caught even one fish it would be a sheer fluke.

Guide for the Royal fishing party was J. L. Stevens, boat house owner.

Mr. Stevens said he found the Royal couple "very natural and easy to get along with." He and the Duke spent much of the two-hour trip chatting "about anything we could think of."

Prince Philip, he said, displayed a workmanlike knowledge of fishing, and of the waters in which they fished. The Duke pointed out nearby islands by name, he said.

The Princess, although she didn't fish, seemed interested in the proceedings.

When Mr. Stevens turned to walk away, the Princess called out, "Thank you very much," and held out her hand. Mr. Stevens embarrassedly wiped his fishy hands on a rag, then walked back to shake hands, first with the Princess, then with the Duke.

"We will be coming back," Prince Philip called out as he climbed into the driver's seat.

Yes, come when the salmon are here, Mr. Stevens replied.

The Prince and Princess waved and smiled happily at the dockside spectators, then drove back to Eagle Crest.

Britons Cast Vote In Vital Election

LONDON, Oct. 25 (Thursday) (CP).—Britons voted today in a general election which will decide whether Prime Minister Attlee's Labor party continues its six years of Socialist rule or Winston Churchill's Conservatives take over the government.

The Conservatives were the betting favorites.

Voters journeyed to the polls in fair weather. If it holds through the day, a high percentage of the 35,000,000 eligible voters will participate, and a record poll is possible. In the February, 1950, general election 84 per cent of the electorate voted. This time 843,384 more voters were eligible.

Voting began at 7 a.m. GMT (11 p.m. PST Wednesday) and will continue until 9 p.m.

The two major parties described the balloting for a new House of Commons as one of the most fateful elections in British history.

Attlee went to the country for the third time since the war after battling the opposition for 20 months in one of the most finely-balanced parliaments since mid-Victorian times.

Both Churchill and Attlee appeared confident.

Egypt Fails To Block Suez Canal

CAIRO, Oct. 24 (CP).—Egypt tried unsuccessfully to block the Suez Canal to British shipping today.

The French-controlled company which operates the canal upheld the freedom of the waterway to ships of all nations.

It pledged that it would refuse to halt any vessel, in keeping with the no-blockade clause of the company's contract.

Egyptian customs officials had ordered the company not to put pilots aboard ships until they have been cleared by them.

The company bypassed the issue by announcing company pilots were not needed.

A British road convoy was fired upon near Ismailia, midway along the canal, an Egyptian bus tried unsuccessfully to run through a British road block, and a British officer's home was looted in other incidents.

Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip watch guide J. L. Stevens wrap the catch in a Daily Colonist before returning to Eagle Crest. The Royal couple will have the fish for breakfast this morning. (Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

Session to Begin Without Fanfare

By LAWRIE JOSTEN

There will be none of the usual excitement today at the opening of the special session of the legislature.

There will be no distinguished guests seated with members on the floor of the House as there always are at the opening of regular sessions.

His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace will read the Speech from the Throne opening the session in traditional fashion. He will enter the buildings at 10 a.m.

Immediately following the reading of the Throne Speech, Opposition Leader Harold Winch will introduce Frank Mitchell, recently-elected C.C.F. member for Esquimalt riding.

Mr. Mitchell will then be permitted to take his seat in the House.

Designed to hurry up proceedings of the session, a motion will be introduced by Premier Byron Johnson calling for morning, afternoon and evening sittings until adjournment.

PENSION BILL

Legislation to authorize payment of pensions to persons between 65 and 69 years of age will not be introduced until this afternoon. It is for consideration of this legislation that the special session has been called.

General opinion among members is that the scope of the session will not be widened for consideration of any other issue. Many members believe the session will be over by Saturday.

OTTAWA, Oct. 24 (CP).—The government got a variety of suggestions today about how to bring down the cost of living.

Tinged with various political hues, they were offered in the Commons as the problem of high prices continued to dominate the resumed debate on the Speech from the Throne.

Donald Fleming (P.C., Toronto-Eglinton), continuing the Progressive Conservative attack on the government's fiscal policies, suggested it help to bring down living costs by reducing taxes, especially those imposed in the last budget.

Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East) suggested price controls and subsidies on essential goods.

John Sinnott (L., Springfield) said the best way to cut food prices would be to reduce income tax assessments on farmers and thus encouraging them to work harder and produce more.

J. L. Gibson (Ind., Comox-Alberni) suggested that Canada's high-priced beef be exported to the better-paying United States market, the country then import low-cost beef cuts from Argentina.

Birds Avoid Royal Hunter

By Colonist Staff Correspondent

QUALICUM BEACH, Oct. 24

Prince Philip apparently is a better fisherman than hunter.

He went shooting this morning in the pheasant-infested grounds at Eagle Crest Lodge where the Royal couple is spending its island vacation, but he didn't flush a single bird.

Under Suspension

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Oct. 24 (CP).—The death sentence of 12-year-old Francis Stephen Sykes of Mission, B.C., has been commuted to life imprisonment.

He was convicted June 2 of the sex slaying of 13-year-old Laura Grant, whose nude body was found in a pasture near her home. He was sentenced to be hanged Dec. 11.

Sheriff Frank R. Cotton of New Westminster was advised late today by W. P. J. O'Meara, acting undersheriff of state, Ottawa, that the sentence had been commuted.

At his trial Sykes claimed the girl submitted to him voluntarily and died accidentally.

Sykes counsel appealed to Ottawa for commutation of the sentence after the B.C. appeal court in Victoria declined an appeal from John Burton on behalf of Sykes.

Burton had fought for a retrial on the grounds that there was no evidence of rape and that the point charges would be taken into trial judge in New Westminster, account.

At present, United States funds are accepted at par value with Canadian currency. United States purchasers do not benefit from the official exchange rate in provincial liquor stores as they do in ordinary retail stores.

The official rate of exchange is now just a little more than 4 per cent.

Mr. McGowan said B.C. liquor stores would not deal in fractions in computing exchange. Only full point changes will be taken into account.

King to Hear Early Returns

LONDON, Oct. 24 (CP).—Election eve produced a restrained excitement in Buckingham Palace tonight.

The King, recovering from a lung operation, planned to remain awake long enough tomorrow night to hear some early returns from the third post-war British general election.

Story of Ships' Collision Told in Admiralty Court

VANCOUVER, Oct. 24 (CP).—The story of a mishap at sea Aug. 30, was told today in Admiralty Court at the inquiry into the collision of the cruise ships Prince Rupert and Princess Kathleen in Chatham Channel, 32 miles northwest of Prince Rupert.

Capt. G. O. Hughes, master of Canadian Pacific Steamships' Kathleen, testified that the first indication he had of approaching danger was a ship's fog whistle, "which sounded rather close to me."

The hearing is being conducted by Mr. Justice Sidney Smith.

At the time of the collision, Prince Rupert, from Ketchikan, Alaska, and the Rupert was sailing on the opposite course.

He had been awakened at 4:30 a.m. as soon as the ship had entered fog. Capt. Hughes stated, and was dressing when he heard his own ship's routine fog signals and another one close by.

"I had no sooner entered the bridge and looked out the window, when I yelled to the fourth officer, 'There's his green light.' The ship appeared to be about one and a half ship lengths away."

"She was bearing 60 degrees and coming right on us on our port bow."

"The Prince Rupert backed right on and I saw we seemed to be heading straight at each other."

The emergency whistle and emergency alarm for passengers and crew.

After engineers reported that everything was holding well, the ship went on to Prince Rupert.

Revived Truce Talks Off to Good Start

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 25 (Thursday) (AP).—United Nations and Communist truce teams today launched a new attempt to end the Korean war and an Allied spokesman said they were off to a fast start.

Brig. Gen. William P. Norrish told newsmen today there was nothing said today to indicate that the talks were not off to a good start. We wasted very little time in administrative matters."

The desire of the United Nations delegation was to get into substantial matters, and not go into past history. We wanted to get into agenda item number two as quickly as possible and that is exactly what we are doing."

The full delegations met for a half hour, then named sub-committees to carry on at an afternoon session the discussion over where to draw an armistice buffer zone separating the two forces.

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters said swarms of increasingly bold Communist jet fighters battled a flight of U.S. Superforts and 60 Allied fighters.

Bail Totals $64,000

VANCOUVER, Oct. 24 (CP).—Twenty-two men and one woman appeared in police court today, paid bail totaling $64,000, and were remanded for one week.

One man is driving from Kelowna, B.C., to give himself up, another surrendered himself, a third was arrested on Vancouver Island and B.C.M.P. are looking for eight others.

That's the latest on the Vancouver police roundup of the "kingpins" of the city's book-making racket, the biggest crackdown of its kind in any Canadian city which involves every bookmaking establishment in the city for seven years.

Police have the names of 260 small bookmakers who "have faced charges in some cases for years. They do not plan prosecution at present."

Jack Green, a Parksville club owner, was arrested in Nanaimo today. Frank Torome of Kelowna, left by car for Vancouver and is expected to appear in court today.

It was virtually impossible to place a bet in Vancouver today.

SERGEANT LIEUTENANT JOSEPH CYR

Of Edmonton, N.B., is under suspension in destroyer Cayuga off Korea and a joint Naval and R.C.M.P. probe is trying to determine whether he is actually a deserter.

He has been home since he was released from the investigation and is being held in a military hospital.

Real Hope for Cease Fire Seen by U.N. Spokesmen

MUNSAN, Oct. 24 (AP).—Communist delegates to the resumed Korean cease-fire talks are expected to sign on the present battle line.

This is the opinion of several men at the United Nations command advance headquarters.

There is optimism that the talks at Panmunjom this time may bring an armistice after some rough going. Here is why:

1. The Communists knew the U.N. delegates were not going to back down from their demand for a cease-fire on the present battle line. Yet they came back to the conference table anyway.

2. Chinese radio broadcasts have indicated lately the Reds were ready to abandon their demand for a cease-fire line on the 38th Parallel.

3. The same men who are optimistic about an agreement on the cease-fire line look for trouble on the second item of the agenda.

This deals with the creation of inspection teams. Both sides would send teams behind the lines to see that the antagonists live up to the terms of the armistice.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.N. supreme commander, wants to make sure the Chinese and North Koreans don't use an armistice to build up their forces.

The pessimists remember the Iron Curtain in Europe and the stern reluctance of the Communists to let any non-Communist see behind it.

If the two delegations get together on inspection, they next must agree on an exchange of prisoners of war. The Allies have more than 100,000 prisoners and the Communists hold only about 10,000.

Any agreement would have to be on something besides a man-for-man basis.

Then there is the possibility of violations of the neutral zone—true and otherwise—which interrupted the first cease-fire sessions.

This time efforts have been made to guarantee against violations of the neutral zone. But there still can be violations—or claims thereof.

Gen. Ridgway said the question of Canada sharing the expenses of the Royal family in England has not been broached and therefore not considered.

The issue was raised by an Australian newspaper, the Melbourne Argus, which suggested that Australia should consider making some contribution to the King's allowances, now paid by Britain alone.

A reporter caught Mr. Abbott as he came out of a Liberal caucus and asked if Canada had considered offering any allowance to her King. The minister said Canada is footing the bill for the present tour of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh and is ready to do so for the King if he cares to come here.

But the question of paying Royal expenses in England was another matter and one which, both Mr. Abbott and Mr. St. Laurent said, is not up for consideration.

Canada's only contributions to Royalty are to the King's representative in Ottawa, the Governor-General.

Truant Wasn't Really Ill But She Was Caught Cold

GREEN BAY, Wis., Oct. 24 (INS).—Fourteen-year-old Patsy Whiting, who could not go to school last Friday because, the F.B.I. charges, she and her mother and brother were robbing a Wisconsin bank, was bound over to federal court today on an armed robbery charge.

Patsy appeared at the Green Bay, Wis., junior high school Monday with a neatly-written excuse from her mother, Mrs. Esther Amelia Whiting, 41, which read:

"Please excuse Patsy for being absent from school. She had a cold."

Yesterday, the F.B.I. announced that Mrs. Whiting, Patsy, Mrs. Whiting's son by a previous marriage, Charles French Jr., 24, and two other men had been arrested for the $11,534 holdup of the Laona, Wis., bank.

Patsy appeared before a U.S. commissioner today for arraignment on a federal armed robbery complaint.

Throne Speech 'Regrets' Labrador Log Report

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Oct. 24 (CP).—Economic development mission was on its way and would start work within a week, Premier Joseph R. Smallwood said today.

It is the simple truth to say that in all her long history Newfoundland has never known such a high degree of prosperity as in this present year," said the Premier from the throne read by Lieutenant Governor Sir Leonard Outerbridge.

The speech expressed "deep regret" that a commission investigating the possibilities of full-scale logging in Labrador had reported the project "unsound and impracticable."

The report had stalled an expected dollar release from the German government for a firm which had undertaken the logging development. A second commission session was under way here today.

MONKEYS IN DEMAND

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP).—Auckland zoo officials have learned that female pigtail monkeys are hard to obtain. Singapore traders state that high prices are paid by natives who train the animals to pluck coconuts. The market for coconuts has risen and with it the demand for monkeys.

Two Members Of Nobility Die

LONDON, Oct. 24 (AP).—Two members of Britain's nobility died today.

The Countess of Sandwich, daughter of the late William Sturges of New York, died at her home in Hinchbrook, the 87-year-old Marquess of Bristol died at his home in Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk.

The Marquess of Bristol succeeded his uncle in 1907, after 34 years' service in the Royal Navy. He retired as a rear admiral in 1911.

The title passes to his 81-year-old brother, Lord Herbert Hervey, former British minister to Colombia, Peru and Ecuador.

Oddities

OTTAWA, Oct. 24 (CP).—Add why parents get grey: four Ottawa children munched excitedly on a box of dynamite sticks, thinking they were candy.

The case came up today in court here when a construction company pleaded guilty to failing to keep the dynamite in a proper locker. It was fined $50.

The children, ranging from four to six, found the "candy" while playing around a housing project. A parent happened to spot what was wrong.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 24 (AP).—A bunch of big spenders—some with rolls of $15,000—hit town today for their first fling in six months.

About 150 construction workers—bearded, well-heeled and thirsty for the bright lights—were paid off here for six months' work in Greenland after being flown into nearby Westover airbase yesterday.

Shortly afterward police reported one man hurt critically in a hotel brawl and a fellow construction worker held for assault.

Some men who flashed thick rolls reported they were averaging $500 a week, with overtime, for their work on operation Blue Jay, a huge air base on the Arctic island.

Confusing the Issue

DISCUSSION of the proposal that milk should be subsidized from provincial profits on the sale of liquor strikes us as so much waste of breath. The only question at issue is whether or not milk should be subsidized at all. The origin of the money which might be used for that purpose is quite beside the point, since the cash for public services of any kind all comes out of one pot.

With liquor the British Columbia government is in the retail merchandising business, but its net profits therefrom are not kept separate. They are paid into the consolidated revenue account for the general purposes of government, in the same way as the proceeds of the many other provincial taxes. It is entirely misleading to suggest that the origin of funds used to create the illusion of cheaper milk prices could be identified with those people who spend money on liquor or any other luxury.

If the provincial government were to grant subsidies on milk or anything else the money would have to come out of consolidated revenue in exactly the same way as funds for all other government expenditures. The drinks of the province would go on contributing their share as before, but it is a mistake to suppose that they would be paying for milk subsidies any more than motorists who are taxed on their gasoline purchases or any others who contribute to the general tax fund.

Subsidies for milk would be one more drain on a public purse filled from many different sources, and this suggestion that only the drinkers would be paying for them is just eyewash. That being so, there is no need to drag in moral arguments either way. Social services, the schools and all other good works of the government have been supported in part from its trade in liquor for a quarter of a century.

Well-Earned Tribute

THE INCLUSION of Major General Pearkes in the Canadian delegation to the U.N. General Assembly in Paris next month is a well-earned tribute to the Nanaimo member. Not many soldiers of renown are able to become good parliamentarians, but General Pearkes has made a decided mark in the House of Commons. As one of the most intelligent and best informed members of the Conservative side of the House he should be an asset to this country's delegation.

Mr. L. B. Pearson, the able minister of external affairs, will head Canada's delegation himself this time, and there is the possibility that the C.C.F. and the Social Credit parties may also be asked to supply a delegate. No one political party has a monopoly of all the wisdom, and all four major political groups of Canada are in accord with this country's membership in the United Nations.

Foreign affairs is one realm in which government and opposition often find a common meeting ground, and obviously a delegation which reflects unity of purpose and national aim will command more weight and respect than one which represents only the party in power. Previous Canadian delegations to the U.N. have been compounded of various political shades, and the policy worked well. It means that one voice speaks for Canada in world councils, and thus increases the chance of its being properly heeded.

An Intriguing Incident

IT SEEMS to have been easier to join the navy as a medical officer than as an ordinary seaman. Until the procedure was changed recently the application of a new lower deck entry had to go all the way to Ottawa for approval, surely a superfluous journey if ever there was one, whose elimination should help local officers to fill their ranks with greater celerity.

By contrast we have the case of the suspended surgeon-lieutenant of the Cayuga, who is alleged not to be a doctor at all and not the man whose name appears on his commission. Piquancy is added to the situation by the knowledge that he has performed successful operations while in the Far East, on South Korean soldiers.

All men are deemed innocent until they are proved guilty, as naval headquarters rightly point out, and not before the investigation is complete may one draw a definitive conclusion. The officer in question may be the victim of a mistake or the navy itself may be the victim of a hoax. Presumably we shall soon know.

No matter what the answer, however, it is clear the R.C.N. doesn't know its men as well as it thinks it does. Surgeons are apparently not screened as meticulously as ordinary seamen. A smart imposter backed with documentary evidence might of course hoodwink any official, but it does come as a surprise to learn that the navy could be in doubt about the identity of its wardroom personnel in any particular whatsoever.

Hollow Gesture

A LOT of nonsense has been said and written about the corps of newspaper correspondents accompanying the Royal tour "giving" Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip a complete holiday during their stay at Eagle Crest. Gestures of that kind are empty and meaningless. The Royal visitors will have their holiday, and nothing the reporters or photographers do or don't do could change the character of it in the slightest. Eagle Crest this week is a fortress, and newspapermen could not trespass on the privacy of its Royal guests even if they had the temerity to try. It is the height of presumption to suggest that the press is bestowing a favor on the Princess and her husband.

CHIVALRY

Sir,—I would like to express my appreciation and thanks to a young man with a saw horse. In doing so, I know I am voicing the feelings of a few dozen others.

Being on the outside edge of the crowds round Thunderbird Park, it was impossible to catch a glimpse of the proceedings, but a very pleasant and charming young Englishman had along with him a saw horse, on which he was allowing all and sundry to stand to have a peek. Not only that, but he personally assisted each one up and down, as if they were the royalty.

My sister remarked to him that he had better take a look himself. He was being a regular "good Samaritan"—to which he replied, "Not at all, it's lucky I have this thing."

When we left he was still graciously assisting one after another up and down, and to the eternal credit of Victorians not one spoiled this incident by remaining more than a few seconds, although it afforded a good view and all would naturally have seen more if it had not been selfish to do so. I trust the young man himself finally had a full and satisfying view of the Royal couple. We went forth to see Royalty and we were not disappointed, we not only saw two Royal personages, but we witnessed a royal gesture.

THE BABY BONUS

Sir,—According to an item in The Colonist the federal government in 21 years has paid out nearly $735,000,000 in old-age pensions, while in six years it has paid out nearly twice this sum in family allowances.

The old-age pensions have been paid out to those over 70 years who have passed a means test and who have very meagre incomes. The family allowances, however, have been paid without a means test and irrespective of the incomes of the recipients.

The baby bonus is from $5 to $8 per month for each child under sixteen years. It is conservative to state that this baby bonus act is largely responsible for inflation, and that it has cost the taxpayers at least double the amounts paid out, since they have paid once in taxes and at least once in increased prices and rents. It was nothing but a political hoax.

If the baby bonus is a farce the bonus paid to those in their second childhood is surely a fraud. This bonus runs from some $4 per month for a single person with an income of $2,000 to some $33 per month to those in the highest income brackets. The only qualifications for the second-childhood bonus is that the recipient must be 65 years of age and must have a minimum and not a maximum income.

It is proposed that a means test be imposed on all those between 65 and 70 who will receive old-age pensions at the first of next year. I trust that the income tax act will be revised so that persons over 65 will not be penalized for having small incomes and rewarded for having large ones.

TOO MANY HANDS

Sir,—The exhaustion experienced by H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth during her most fatiguing progress through Canada should be noted by those wishing to serve and honor her.

The handshaking should be reduced to a minimum. At all public receptions it should be made very clear that the Princess will shake hands with the first hundred persons presented to her. The remainder to curtsy, or to bow.

It would save Her Royal Highness a great deal of avoidable fatigue if this could be put into practice during the second half of her most arduous tour, much of which will be through the United States.

Could not some way be found to implement this suggestion, which in practice would prove an immense relief?

The newspapers have already urged the sparing of Her Royal Highness all unnecessary exhaustion.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

EVER since I was a small boy I've submitted myself when I enter a public library; I go on tiptoe, mentally and physically.

I suppose it's because so much learning lies on so many shelves that it's awesome, or perhaps it's a legacy from the days when as a schoolboy I crept into the Mitchell Library, where small boys were not encouraged.

There were other places for them to haunt.

Of course I don't feel quite so prostrated now as then, yet last week, for instance, when a young girl a third my age showed me around the new wing of the library building I found myself deferring as though she and not I were the adult.

A fine, gracious youngster she was, too, by the way, and she certainly knew her stuff, if I may so inelegantly put it. All our public library girls do, as a matter of fact, and their tact is only exceeded by their wide knowledge.

I don't suppose Victorians ever stop to realize what goes into the making of good librarians; or how precious they are. They're too often taken for granted. Few people take time to wonder how they accumulate the vast fund of knowledge so readily forthcoming at the slightest hint of mental distress among their customers.

Once I remember an ignorant, and he was a fairly top-level public official at that, dismissing a librarian's plea by saying that all she had to do was walk to a drawer and pull out an index card. As to how the entries on the card got there, the knowledge and judgment behind them, he obviously hadn't the foggiest notion.

Perhaps he never was inside a library, poor fellow.

You would read about the new wing that was opened with a flourish last week, making the Yates Street building one of the best of its size in the whole country, and putting Vancouver to shame. It has taken me a week to pay this humble tribute but better late than never.

I wasn't here to see but Elizabeth and Philip drove past the library on Monday. They wouldn't notice it, I daresay, for Canada must be one vast blur to them; a compound of buildings, altitudes, banquets and bobbing figures that will be sorted out only when they get home and look over the scrapbooks. If some of the serious don't surprise them then I'd be surprised. Even as you and I they are bound to say of some pictures: "Look at me in this one."

The library girls would be on the sidewalks to cheer as the Royal visitors went by for they are loyal folk, these librarians of ours. Then they would go back inside and attend to their stacks.

Bright yellow these are, part of a decorative motif that's pleasing and helpful to the eye. With lots of spare. No one ever prayed for spare like these girls did over the years, packed as they were with thousands of volumes as though they were B.C. salmon. Now they've got elbow room with a few conveniences of their own thrown into the bargain.

I don't patronize the library as I should, but I'm glad that at long last it has got a new deal. This would be a dreadfully empty town were there no public library. Stop for a moment and think of such a calamity, and you'll realize what wonderful service we get from Miss Margaret Clay and her quiet, polite and efficient staff.

They are worth all the upturning of us may do, even though, in truth, there is no need for it.

Gerald Waring

Reporting From Ottawa

STANLEY Woodward, the long-time protocol officer of the American state department who is now his country's ambassador to Ottawa, is telling Americans that Canadians often view the United States with misgivings. That isn't exactly new on this side of the border, but Ambassador Woodward obviously thought Canada's "dim view" reaction, as he put it, to United States action or inaction on some issues of mutual concern, like the St. Lawrence seaway, should be brought to his people's attention.

So in a speech unusual for its frankness, Woodward sought to help his listeners at Massena, N.Y., see their country through Canadian eyes. It was Woodward apologized, "a squinted and distorted picture" of the United States, but one that some Canadians see from north of the 49th parallel.

Even while echoing Canadian criticism of the U.S., Woodward criticized the criticism as perhaps one would expect—as ignoring "our fundamental sense of justice, our idealism, our personal independence and individualism, our readiness to give until it hurts to help others in need, and to shoulder burdens which are not our own, for the good of humanity."

There's no quarrelling with Woodward on American possession in abundance of these and many other fine traits. But what is of greater interest is how this shrewd observer observes us—or some of us, at any rate—reacting towards the United States.

"Look at our country through Canadian eyes," he said. "You have been bred (as Canadians) in a tradition which lays great weight on law and order, and you see your great and good neighbors to the south depicted by their own press and movies as something a little less than perfect."

"You are uneasily aware that Canada cannot decide its own course independently of a much more powerful neighbor, and you see the leading figures of that neighbor's government

"You are child of two European nations who have had to subordinate their domestic concerns to international ones for centuries, and you find yourself inevitably linked to the international course laid down by a nation which you are forced to regard as politically immature, while some of its leading political figures display a frightening unconcern with the ideas and necessities of the rest of the world."

INCIDENTAL intelligence: Best guess is that Nazi Major Gen. Kurt Meyer will be left in his new German prison when the Allies finally and the occupation of Germany probably in the not too distant future. Then it is expected that the West German government will liberate him. . . . Douglas Harkness (P.C. Calgary East) suggested in the Commons that Hansard, the verbatim report of parliamentary speeches, be sent to the troops in Korea. That's all a man in a foxhole needs, to while away his leisure hours.

Senator John T. Haig, Opposition leader in the Upper House, doesn't predict a federal election next year. He merely told the Senate that "if the government holds a general election next June, as is now suggested, they will wonder what kind of a cyclone hit them." Actually, talk of an election soon, with the voters feeling as they do about the high cost of living, is just wishful thinking by the opposition parties. . . . The government plans to use a large part of the current surplus to retire $500,000,000 in bonds maturing Nov. 1. In effect, this move will camouflage the size of Finance Minister Abbott's surplus next spring, and possibly save him some embarrassment.

Cementing Nordic Unity

(From News of Norway)

OSLO'S majestic Town Hall glowed in torchlight when leading dignitaries from Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland and Iceland recently gathered in the magnificent banquet hall to observe "Scandinavian Friendship Day."

Sponsored by the Inter-Scandinavian Society Norden, the event was marked with similar civic ceremonies by the society's 100 local branches throughout Norway.

Among those attending the Oslo celebration were King Haakon, Crown Prince Olav, Princess Astrid, Norwegian Prime Minister Einar Gerhardsen, and the ministers of Denmark, Sweden, Finland and Iceland.

Principal speaker of the evening was Danish Foreign Minister Erik Eriksen, who observed that Scandinavian cooperation had developed slowly and naturally. Declaring that it would have been a mistake to push ahead faster than public opinion and understanding were prepared to go, he expressed hope that a Scandinavian customs union and a joint Scandinavian parliamentary negotiating organ would ultimately be established.

Earlier, Norwegian Prime Minister Gerhardsen gave a radio talk over the Norwegian Broadcasting System in which he observed: "Our aim must be to develop Scandinavian cooperation to such a degree that one day we can feel that we are citizens not only of Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Sweden, or Norway, but that we share in all essential respects a Scandinavian citizenship as well. It is our sincere wish and aim that Scandinavia may become the peaceful corner in a world where all peoples live in peace and mutual toleration."

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Egyptians: "A fine people (says The Winnipeg Tribune) with an uncontrollable passion for dabbling their feet in the nearest supply of drinking water."

In their strange way, Korea peace negotiations resemble the early 1900 automobiles—the kind that broke down while standing still.

A young lad in the lower grades complained to his teacher that he had a terrific stomach ache. The teacher sent him to see the principal. When the little tyke returned to the classroom, he walked in such a manner that his stomach stuck out. When the teacher asked him why he was walking that way, he replied:

"I told the principal I had a stomach ache and he said if I could stick it out till noon he'd drive me home."

"Doctor, remember last summer you recommended I go on with gold and get my mind off my business?"

"That's right. How did it work?"

"Fine, but now can you recommend something to get my mind back on my business?"

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

ENGLAND still has a fairly conspicuous number of those tall, haggard blonde women, sweetly arrogant and usually inhaling cigarettes with a whoof like an exhaust. The this type has practically vanished from Canada. Years back, I can recollect the odd one in our Canadian cities. Something has apparently exterminated them here. But in London, you will see half a dozen of them in a morning.

They are invariably bullying somebody about—husband, or clerk in a store, or taxi driver. They are around forty. They have faded blonde hair which is always sportily neglected. They keep pushing it back with the heel of their palms. They have big noses, high cheekbones, long knobby hands. Their voices are hoarse, and they generally interrupt their loud conversation with a sepulchral cough.

They always take charge of things. If they come into a bus queue, it is they, at the tail end, who stride out onto the pavement to hold up a long, commanding arm to hail the bus. And they manage to get on the bus, too. If they come into a shop, they don't put up with any nonsense from the clerks or prior customers. Apparently England has surrendered to this type, because neither clerks nor prior customers offer any resistance. They belong to no particular class of the community. As a rule, they are a little dowdy, and look as if they might be getting by and no more.

Tall, honey, haggard blondes, gusting their cigarettes and glancing about with cold, way eyes. Apparently they are not and never have been the emigrating type: or else something in our climate transforms them. Our blondes are nice and small and fat, at that age.

Price Fixing

(From The Winnipeg Free Press)

ATTEMPTS to discount the importance of the pending federal legislation, which would ban the practice of resale price maintenance, are being made by a number of the more security-minded spokesmen of the retail trade. They apparently share the view of some price fixing manufacturers that the only deplorable feature of the free competitive system is the duty of price competition which it imposes upon the business community. For this primary guarantee to the consumer, they would substitute a vague assurance of "fair" prices, defined not by supply and demand but by some mysterious and costly process, which largely excludes consumer participation.

One current line of argument is that, even if such legislation is introduced by the government, no price changes of any importance need be anticipated. It is alleged that trading margins are now so reasonable in any case that there is really no room for competitive pricing. It would be far better, they suggest, to keep the existing system which carries the assurance that a consumer will pay the same standard price for the same standard article at every store.

While close analysis of resale price maintenance must await another occasion, a preliminary point may be noted at this time. The above argument begs the whole question. The fact to be noted is that in Hamilton and certain other Ontario cities leading retailers have begun to cut prices on standard lines, even before the legislation has been introduced in the House of Commons. This alacrity carries the inference the very powerful inference—that there is plenty of room for competitive pricing. It follows that if, in these circumstances, competition is not present, the spur to productive efficiency is lost and the anti-inflationary forces in the economy are being held in check. Consumers will rightly conclude that in this situation the news itself is far more significant than the comments of interested parties alarmed by the prospective business of the Canadian Parliament.

Noise of Battle

And all hours long, the town
Roars like a beast in a cage
That is wounded there
And like to drown;
While days rush, wave after wave
On its hair.
An invisible woe unseals
The flood, so it passes beyond
All bounds: the great old city
Recumbent roars as it feels
The foamy paw of the pond
Reach from immensity.
But all that it can do
Now, as the tide rises,
Is to listen and hear the grim
Waves crash like thunder through
The splintered streets, hear noises
Roll hollow in the interim.

Nor mind the heart with frosts of fate,
Their feet will go with laughter bold

Their eyes will see the gates unfold
The green roads of the Never-Old.

Twenty-one Vancouver Island students attending the University of British Columbia have won scholarships and bursaries, the University announces.

Fourteen Victorians are among the winners. Heading the list of Island winners is Edward Fulham, Mansons Landing, who is awarded a $100 special scholarship for University Entrance and a $100 Sam Rothstein Bursary.

Gordon Wesley Young, 21, of Nanaimo, received a $350 bursary from the city winners with a Ph.D. club bursary for law of $300 and a University Student Liberal Club $50 bursary.

Gordon Leslie Kiger, Vancouver, won the $700 Powell River Co. Ltd. scholarship for research and graduate study in chemistry. Gordon Young is a native of Victoria who attended Victoria West and Victoria High Schools as well as Victoria College. He will graduate from his law course in another year.

S. Felicity Woodward, 27, of Nanaimo, received a $250 graduate scholarship of the R.C. Science Bursary with graduate next week. Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Woodward will witness the graduation Friday of their 22-year-old daughter.

Elmer Seymour Matthews, 21, of Nanaimo, received a $100 Strathcona Trust scholarship in physical education during his first year at U.B.C. A native of the city, he attended Quadra School and Victoria College.

Thomas Wickham, 20, St. Charles Street, is awarded a $100 Pharmaceutical Association scholarship.

Margaret Patricia Leech, 28, 2829 Alstin Avenue, is winner of a $125 Captain Leroy Memorial Bursary. The 21-year-old Victorian will graduate in May. A previous winner of scholarships, she attended Mount View School and Victoria College.

Alison Maclean, of 77 Linden Avenue, has been a resident of Victoria five years, working part time to help her education. Already holding a degree in home economics, the 28-year-old Victoria resident will graduate next spring with her Masters degree in social work. Her award is a $100 bursary.

Politics Unchanged By Injury

SCARBOROUGH, Yorkshire, England, Oct. 24 (Reuters).—Alec Spearman, Conservative candidate in the general election, today got a letter from the children's ward of Scarborough Hospital.

It read: "Dear Mr. Spearman. I stuck up for you at school Friday but the Labor won and I got a broken leg. So it's up to you to win on Thursday. Best wishes. John Bullmore."

A friend explained that John, aged 9, was injured in a game called "Conservatives versus Labor." "Something like cowboys and Indians."

Seattle Concert Master To Play With Symphony

Walter Sundstén, of the Seattle Symphony Orchestra, will be concert master for the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, which will be playing at the Royal Theatre next Monday night.

His engagement to appear here was approved by the symphony board of directors last night, after musical director Hans Klippel had recommended him.

Mr. Sundstén, one of the leading violinists in the northwest, will also act as concert master when Mr. Gruber conducts the orchestra at the Victoria Symphony Orchestra's concert at the Royal Theatre on Sunday afternoon.

Program for Monday's concert, sponsored by Canada, Safeway Ltd., will comprise Nicolai's opera, The Merry Wives of Windsor, Bisset's orchestral suite from the opera Carmen, and Tchaikowski's Symphonie Pathétique, No. 6 in B minor.

Mr. Sundstén will return to the orchestra for the concert of Nov. 19, when he will appear as solo violinist in the major work on the program.

Little Girl Gets Ride In Royal Convertible

By Colonist Staff Reporter
QUALICUM BEACH, Oct. 24.—Six-year-old Betsy Kinkade rode in a princely car today.

The little girl, the third of her life when she rode in the plexiglass bubble Cadillac convertible used by Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip for most of their public appearances.

The car was parked at a Qualicum Beach garage when Betsy drove by with her father, Gerald T. Kinkade, local beer parlor operator.

The driver of the car, which is being held here for use in civic ceremonies at Nanaimo Friday, offered to drive Betsy around the block.

For Betsy it was an even greater thrill than when she sat in a chair which had been used by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth during the Kinkades' trip to Ottawa last year.

Commodore Kenneth Adams, a native Victorian, will arrive in the city shortly to take over command of H.M.C.S. Naden.

He brought the carrier Magnificent into Halifax for the last time yesterday after establishing something of a record on a Mediterranean cruise.

Hear Admiral Ralph Edwards, Royal Navy air chief for the Mediterranean, sent a message to Commodore Adams saying: "You have shown us how anti-submarine operations should be conducted."

"I'm glad to be going back to my native land," said the jovial commodore, "but it isn't without some regret. Everything I've done today has been for the last time. I ordered my planes flown off for the last time and I brought my ship to dock for the last time."

The magnificent arrived in Halifax, escorted by the destroyer Monarch, with more than 1,000 ratings lining the rail and the band playing a lively tune on the flight deck.

During the Mediterranean cruise—the ship's aircraft made more than 1,000 deck landings with only three minor accidents, in which nobody was hurt.

Triple Meeting
On Fisheries
Set in Japan

OTTAWA, Oct. 24 (C.P.).—Canada and the United States have accepted an invitation from the Japanese Government to attend a three-way Tokyo conference on North Pacific fisheries starting Nov. 5, the Fisheries Department announced today.

Aim of the conference will be a tripartite agreement for North Pacific fisheries of common concern.

Fisheries Minister Mayhew will head the Canadian delegation. It will include his deputy, Stewart Bates, Dr. J. L. Hart of the Pacific Biological station at Nanaimo, B.C., John M. Buchanan, chairman of the salmon canners operating committee, Vancouver, and A. R. Menzies, of the external affairs department.

Centrepieces
Also Edible

QUALICUM BEACH, B.C., Oct. 24 (C.P.).—The Royal party may eat the decorative table centrepieces after each meal at Eagle Crest Lodge.

Luscious peats and apples, each fruit perfect, are being used as table decorations when Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip dine at their holiday retreat.

The fruit comes from Washington's State's famous Wenatchee Valley ranch of Mrs. Thomas Balmor of Seattle.

A guest at Eagle Crest when the Royal visit was announced, Mrs. Balmor, famous in the Pacific northwest as a table decorator, was invited to return to arrange decorations for the visit.

Mrs. Balmor, wife of the vice president of the Great Northern Railway mainline, said dinner centrepieces should be edible.

Flowers at the lodge are also from her Seattle garden and in the suite of the Royal guests are spicy pieces of pine and other conifers from the Eagle Crest grounds.

Market Gains Continue But With Less Strength

By AP and CP
NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP).—The general recovery of the stock market extended into its second session today but with less strength than the first.

The two-day upturn has retraced about half of the ground lost in Monday's sharp drop. Steel and rails were leaders in the advance today as they were Tuesday.

Volume for the session was about 2,900,000 shares. A firmer tone continued to the close on the Montreal stock exchange and curb market, but trading was fairly quiet. Changes ranged to more than two points among a few leaders. Senior metals led the market higher. Mines and western oils were firmer.

Vancouver prices were steadier at close of Vancouver stock exchange today. Most of the gains were made in the morning session. Coarse grains futures prices were somewhat irregular in a moderately active session today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Rye and flax were mostly lower.

Fair commercial demand appeared for oats and barley. There were no reports of overnight export loadings of wheat. Under an agreement between Western Polaris Ltd. and Bata Petroleum, gas will be used to supply heat needed in the process of mining potash. The gas will come from Bata 15 and Bata 26, both wells situated near the potash project at Vera.

CALGARY, Oct. 24 (CP).—Southern Alberta cattle owners are faced with a "catastrophe" because of a feed shortage. W. H. T. Mead, provincial livestock commissioner, said today. Rain and then snow, up to 10 inches of it, prevented the cattle men from getting feed in from the fields this fall. And the feed lots, which normally would be able to help the cattle men over the feeding problem, have no feed either.

This situation arrived during the greatest demand for feed for finishing of cattle in Alberta's history. Stamped by the feed shortage, cattle owners have swamped the stockyards here with unprecedented cattle deliveries. They hoped that by selling the cattle now, when prices generally are ahead of those at the same date last year, they will rid themselves of the feed problem.

Others are cashing in on their cattle now because of shortage of funds attributed to unharvested grain. About 50 per cent of Alberta's grain was unharvested when the heavy snow fell. With more than 5,000 head of cattle and calves taking its facilities to capacity, Alberta Stockyards Limited, Calgary's only stockyard, today announced no further truck shipments will be accepted for the rest of the week.

There are also reports that milk might have to be rationed in Calgary because of the shortage of feed for dairy cows. District producers are seeking increased milk prices. Mr. Mead said loss of hay in southern Alberta through permanent spoilage is tremendous. Both hay and straw costs about $10 more a ton in the Calgary district than in the Edmonton area, where no shortage of feed or milk is anticipated this winter.

Hay is reported being shipped into the Calgary district from as far away as Manitoba although freight costs are so close to prohibitive. Some desperate southern cattle breeders are even toying with the idea of putting road graders into their fields to shift off feed to the top of the snow where cattle can reach it.

RAY SPOILED
Mr. Mead said there is not enough of last year's poor-quality grain in southern Alberta to ease the feed situation. It is roughage—hay and straw—that is needed most.

About 75 per cent of the cattle swamping the stockyards are of the feeder and stocker type. The weather has accelerated the usual heavy fall run of these cattle. The unprecedented cattle run off truck in Calgary started Monday and has shown no appreciable let-up. By nightfall the first day a record 3,591 head had been checked into the yards. Stockyard sales have been unable to keep up with the delivery pace. The cattle came from most of southern and central Alberta.

Most prices dipped on the Calgary livestock market under the heavy receipts, the drop ranging up to 32 or more on common to medium stocker and feeder steers. However, a packing plant spokesman said this is not expected to affect retail meat prices. There was no demoralized market and prices still were higher than at this time last year.

First-grade industrials forged ahead under the lead of shipbuilding which closed with advances of up to 1.6d; while the miscellaneous industrial leaders, particularly Imperial Chemicals, were prominent with useful gains. Anglo-Iranian led an upward movement in oil shares while in the foreign market German and Japanese bonds scored gains of 1/2 at 1 1/2 points.

British Government funds were quietly steady throughout. British stock closings: Babcock & Wilcox, 79s 6d; Boots Pure Drug, 27s 3d; Canadian Pacific, 70 1/2; Central Mining, 42 1/2; Consolidated Gold Fields, 33s 1 1/2; Courtaulds, 52s; Hudson's Bay Company, 156s 10s; Imperial Chemical, 54s 3d; Imperial Tobacco, 108s 7 1/2; Metal Box, 35s 3d; Mexican Eagle, 27s 6d; Rand Mines, 142s 6d.

Bonds: British 2 1/2 per cent Consols, 166 1/2; British 3 1/2 per cent War Loans, 187 1/2; British Fundings "A's", 196 1/2; 10 1/4.

Timber Men To Discuss Management

Government and forest industry executives will be invited to participate in the ninth annual convention of the Truck Loggers' Association in Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 16 to 18, according to J. W. Baile, president.

"The most important problem facing all timber operators in British Columbia today is management of the forests," Mr. Baile said. "For that reason, it is most important that all operators relating to forestry be critically examined as soon as possible."

"The directors of this association have decided that the general theme of the convention will be concerned primarily with forest management and forest administration," he concluded. "The truck loggers' convention is British Columbia's largest assembly of logging and sawmill operators."

Natural Gas To Feed Plant
REGINA, Oct. 24 (CP).—Natural gas from two wells brought in last summer will be used to operate a pilot plant for the production of potash in the Unity area. J. H. Brockelbank, resources minister, said today. Under an agreement between Western Polaris Ltd. and Bata Petroleum, gas will be used to supply heat needed in the process of mining potash. The gas will come from Bata 15 and Bata 26, both wells situated near the potash project at Vera.

Continual Price Decline In Food Held Unlikely

MONTREAL, Oct. 24 (CP).—In the first seven months of the year a 14 per cent rise in retail food prices accounted for views very often but the Bank of Montreal's latest contains a note that the average registered a decline.

"All things considered, it would seem reasonable to expect a greater stability of food prices in the months to come." That means, housewives, there will be no more price hikes from now until the end of the year.

The review notes that the consuming public is more than usually concerned with trends in food costs these days. Outside of pork which the review notes that the consuming public is more than usually concerned with trends in food costs these days.

Culbertson on Bridge - - - The Daily Cross-Word Puzzle - - -

In today's deal East fell for one of the oldest "con games" in bridge, dealer.

South-South vulnerable.

A 4

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ 3 ♦ Pass Pass
2 ♠ Pass 5 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass Pass Pass

It goes without saying that North-South should not have reached the slam contract, lacking as they did the ace of spades and some very important trumps. However, their bidding was not entirely illogical. South felt that he might be selling out too cheaply under the vulnerability conditions, if he allowed North's double of three spades to stand, and although this was a miscalculation, South could not be severely criticized. It is always uncomfortable for a vulnerable player who holds a seven-card major suit in a good hand to bid the suit only once.

When South went to four hearts in the face of North's warning double, it was quite in order for North to invite the slam by bidding five hearts, in spite of his singleton. From his point of view South's hearts could have been far more solid. As for South's acceptance of the slam invitation, well, to paraphrase Oscar Wilde, bridge players can resist anything but temptation.

West, apparently feeling that the only chance was to find his partner with a singleton or void in spades, cashed his ace and led a second spade. South discarded a club and then stily led dummy's remaining spade honor. As he hoped, East fell. He ruffed the spade with a low trump! South overruffed and proceeded to lay down the ace and king of trumps. Great was the fall thereof, and the slam was "in."

It was absurd for East to ruff the spade, he should have known that South would not have given him the chance except with an ulterior motive. But since East did insist on ruffing, at least he should have ruffed with the jack!

Mr. Longears stopped writing all of a sudden for, through the open window on the room where he sat, he heard a noise. It was a loud noise. A tony, rattling, banging sort of noise.

"My goodness me sakes alive and a basket of soap bubbles!" the rabbit gentleman exclaimed. "What sort of noise is that?"

He could not be sure about it so he hopped across the room, closer to the window and listened with both his long ears.

"Bang-ratt-bang-ratt! Rattle-de-tattle-de-tattle! Clatter-de-clatter-clat!"

"Oh, my goodness me sakes alive and a cup full of water-melon!" exclaimed the bunny uncle. "What strange noise is that? I must open the window and ask the noise to go away. There is too much noise. I can not write with all that noise."

Before Uncle Wiggly could raise the window he heard a voice say:

"I am going to beat you in this race."

"No, you are not! I am going to win!" shouted Uncle Wiggly.

"That sounds like the voices of Jackie and Peetle Bow Wow!" said Uncle Wiggly to himself.

"But I thought they had run away after I told them to stop race," answered Peetle.

their barking race beneath my window. Now they are back again but they are not barking. What can they be doing?"

Even with the window down, Uncle Wiggly could hear the noise. It sounded like:

"Bing! Bang! Bong! Ting! Tang! Tong!"

"Here I come!" shouted a loud voice.

"And here I go! Away ahead of you!" shouted another voice.

By this time Uncle Wiggly had raised the window. He looked out and saw Jackie and Peetle Bow Wow running around the corner of the hollow stump bungalow. Bouncing, hanging, clanging and rattling behind each little puppy dog was a tin can tied to the tails of Jackie and Peetle.

"Jackie! Peetle! Please stop!" shouted Uncle Wiggly. "You are making so much noise under my window that I cannot write my story. Who tied those tin cans on your tails?"

"I tied the can on Jackie's tail!" barked Peetle.

"And I tied the can on Peetle's tail!" barked Jackie.

"Why ever did you do that?" asked Uncle Wiggly.

"So we could have a tin can race after I told them to stop race," answered Peetle.

"Does the noise bother you?" asked Jackie.

"To tell you the truth, puppy dogs, it does," answered Mr. Longears. "It is too much noise for me. Can't you have your tin can race at some other place than around my bungalow, if you please?"

"Yes, I guess we could," answered Peetle.

"We will go away," barked Jackie politely. Then as he and his brother ran away, with the tin cans hanging behind them, Jackie whispered something to his brother.

What Jackie whispered will be told on Monday if the paper is not too full itself with air and burst with such a loud noise that it makes the stove jump over the ice box.
